RICHMOND C. OF C. IS ASSURED

LEGION APPROVES SITE CHOSEN FOR MEMORIAL

COOPERATION OF OTHER SOCIETIES WILL BE ASKED BY LOCAL ORDER

Action of the city council and the American Legion committee in securing a site at Twelfth and Bissell streets for the Veterans' Memorial building was verified by the American Legion at its regular session, and plans were made for starting the campaign for the building.

It was decided by the Legion to ask the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans and the G. A. R. to appoint building committees to work with the American Legion committee. The four organizations will work together in the building and plans for the active program will be made in the near future when the combined committee gets together.

Richmond post of the American Legion will participate in the Legion convention to be held next month in San Francisco, and plans were made last night to have a large number of delegates at the sessions.

The first cement will be poured for the big bridge today and guests from all parts of northern California are expected to be present.

Richmond 130 Pound Eleven Wins Contest

Richmond 130 pounders scored a striking victory yesterday in their initial contest of the season, by defeating the lightweights from the Gallileo High school of San Fransisco by a 38 to 0 score in a fast contest played on Nicholl field.

The Richmond eleven did good work from the first kickoff until the last whistle had blown, and practically every man on the squad was given an opportunity to get into the fracas.

Bennie Muth, who played quarterback for the locals, was the star of the game, making four touchdowns for Richmond, and assisting in making the two forward passes, which resulted in extra points.

Richmond took the lead in the first quarter, when Muth went over for two touchdowns. Muth made another score in the second quarter and one in the third. In the fourth quarter Captain Siegel and Kokores each went over for a touchdown.

As a majority of the men playing on the 130 pound team for the locals are sophomores, it would seem that strong material is being developed for the regulars next year. The lightweights will meet the 130 pound team from Oakland Tech here next Friday.

The lineup that started yesterday's game, was as follows: Gerhheart, c; Fraser, Coaklin, g; Hutchinson, Butcher, t; Dalton, Villalovas, e; Huttong, Siegel, hb; Milnes, fb; Muth, q. The following substitutes were sent in by Coach Heady: Mino, Carey, Conser, Cassidy, Carson, Arnold, Cunaan, Camerlo, Stephenson, Healey, Axelson, Clark Childs, Alexander, Kelliher, Murray.

WILL NAME MEN TO TAKE CHARGE OF ALL WORK OF RE ORGANIZATION

Richmond citizens at the mass meeting last night at the Lincoln school auditorium were unanimously in favor of forming a Richmond Chamber of Commerce to guide and insure proper growth and planning of the city's industrial and business development, and instructed Mayor W. W. Scott to appoint a committee of 20 men to arrange for organization with a minimum yearly operating fund of $20,000, the business men and citizens to pledge support for two years.

The general sentiment of the audience and speakers, including members of the Oakland and Berkeley chambers of commerce and the California Development association, was that Richmond is directly in line with an immediate phenomenal increase, both in population and industry, and the city vitally needs a central organization to help this growth along and assist incoming firms in locating favorable sites.

Have Many Advantages

"You have advantages that are unsurpassed in the bay district." Guy Wolfe, of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce executive force said in regard to the natural resources, "and all that is necessary to bring millions of dollars of industry and trade to your city is an organization that will boost Richmond all the year round and help men seeking home and business sites in finding what they are after.

"The payroll increase over the state of California last year was 33 1-3 per cent." he continued. "Did Richmond get her share of it? The increase in the cities surrounding the bay was 40 per cent. Did Richmond get her share of that? If she didn't there is only one reason, the lack of organization, for you certainly have as many advantages to offer as could be found in any city.

Examples Given

"Oakland has been selling her factory sites to scores of eastern manufacturers on the strength of the deep water shipping facilities and the transcontinental railroads coming right to the factories. You have these same railroads going right through your city to reach Oakland and the San Francisco Bay, comes right around to you. What is more you have more waterfront and more land for factory sites and railroad yards than in Oakland. Your waterfront is deep and you have not the inner harbor troubles to contend with that Oakland is fighting all the time.

"Another asset that you have right at your dooryard, and one that Oakland is going to use in selling her sites to business men, is the nearness to fertile farm lands that will produce enough food stuffs to feed, not only all the people in the bay cities but many more yet to come. Contra Costa has gardens, orchards, vineyards and hundreds of acres of general farming lands that are pouring produce through Richmond to feed our people. This insures ready supply for laboring men, an advantage we in Oakland are going to emphasize in selling our factory sites to manufacturers.

Chamber Needed

"Richmond must have a chamber of commerce to centralize the boosting spirit of the city," he said in closing, "and the only thing to be remembered in making your financial drive is to keep the people from for-

Preparations For Book Week Made

Mrs. Alice G. Whitbeck, county librarian, is preparing for Children's book Week. The one week in the year when all effort is concentrated upon proper home reading for children will begin November 11.

Mrs. Whitbeck states that the pitiful part of this work is that many parents punish their children for reading at home, demanding that all of their spare time be spent in work. She goes on to state that such children never pass the creditable examinations that children allowed home reading do.

This year the seventh and eighth grades have added compulsory home reading and the lists containing books selected for home reading will soon be ready.

Mrs. Whitbeck will have ready for Children's Book Week attractive colored post cards with lists of books that are desirable.

Prior to that time she will endeavor to interest the Parent Teacher associations and clubs in the project and to gain their closest cooperation. One of the main points to be gained during that week will be a realization on the part of all parents in the district that home reading of the proper kind is a fine thing for the child and helpful in the school work.

Inquest Will Be Held As Result Of Boy's Death

A coroner's inquest will be held next week to fix the responsibility for the death of LeRoy Cozine, 17-year old Richmond boy, who died Thursday morning as the result of injuries received when he was knocked from his motorcycle by a speeding motorist on San Pablo avenue, according to announcement made last night by Coroner C. F. Donnelly.

Local officers are still working in an effort to determine the identity of the guilty driver, but as yet have secured no clue which could lead to the arrest of the autoist.

Offer Reward For Capture of Former Resident's Slayer

A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of James Langley, formerly of Richmond, who was killed by a payroll bandit in Los Angeles recently. The reward has been offered by the West Coast Theater company, by whom Langley was employed. While here Langley was manager of the T & D theater.

Plan Reduction In Jury's Fees

Jurors serving in civil cases at Martinez are facing the liklihood of receiving but $2 per day for their services instead of the usual $3.

What fee they will receive has been put up to Superior Judges A. B. McKenzie and H. V. Alvarado by County Clerk J. H. Wells, upon whose shoulders falls the responsibility of totalling jurors' fees.

Wells has asked an opinion of the jurists since a recent examination of the law made by him discloses that the latest county government bill since Contra Costa's advancement to a county of the thirteenth class, does not contain a provision for payment of jurors serving in civil cases. With the county in the sixteenth class a fee of $3 per day was fixed in the county bill with an allowance of 14 cents per mile for travel.

Wells holds the opinion that with the county bill lacking a provision fees would be based on a general law fixing them at $2 per day and 15 cents per mile travel allowance. Whether members of two juries now serving here will be paid $2 or $3 per day for their services depends on the decision of the judges.

Jurors in criminal cases are not affected and will continue to receive $3 per day and 15 cents per mile travel allowance.

Valuation For Bridge Landing Set By Experts

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—A valuation of $150,000 was fixed yesterday afternoon by Hall Wells of San Francisco, former government appraiser, on a strip of land at Valona less than one-half acre in extent, when he testified before a jury in Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado's court in suit instituted by the Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry company to condemn the property as a terminal for its Canquinez Straits bridge. The Crockett Land & Cattle company, owner of the property and defendant in the action values the land at $225,000 and asks judgment for that amount.

In qualifying as an expert witness for the defense, Wells declared he had made many large appraisements for the government, including appraising of the Coronado Beach properties, and that his appraisements had been on all types of land extended from the gulf to the Canadian border and throughout all of the western states. He was for several years president of the National Association of Appraisers and was employed as appraiser by the Southern Pacific and other railroads on various projects. His appraisements, he declared, included placing values on numerous ferry landings about San Francisco bay. The appraised value of the land acquired by the Southern Pacific for its ferry landing at South Vallejo he fixed at $300,000 and he set a like sum for the bridge terminal near Eckley, proposed as a site for a Carquinez Straits bridge by two concerns.

Work On Junior High School Is Near Completion

With the completion of the gymnasium at the Junior High school there remains only one more unit, the auditorium, to complete the housing requirements for the school.

The gymnasium occupies the majority of the Ninth street side of the structure and is divided, one half having facilities for the boys' athletics and the other side fitted for girls' physical training classes. The two sections are separated with a flexible partition and can be thrown into one large hall for inter-school games or activities.

Locker rooms and showers for the students open from both sides of the gymnasium and dressing rooms are provided for both the home and visiting teams.

Principal F. C. Schallenberger says he feels sure the auditorium will be ready for occupancy the latter part of October, completing the new building. The workmen are now busy wiring the stage and when it is completed the placing of the orchestra seats will finish the unit.

RETURNS FROM EAST

Charles Morisette returned yesterday from a trip to Greensbay, Wisconsin and Detroit, Michigan.

Training Hubby

Some people calle dhim a grouch, others said he was suffering with dyspepsia and that's what made him cross. Whatever the trouble was no one understood him like friend wife. Even she at times seemed to be at her wits end. They had been married nearly 20 years and those trying years had left deep furrows on her care-worn face.

Came the day when she decided to try a new method, something different from anything else she had ever tried.

Could she do it?

She wondered if it would come out as she had planned. This was one time in her life she was gong to do her own tainking—yes, she would go through with the scheme.

Several nights later "old grouch" sat in the old familiar chair with a scowl on his face that would scare a wild cat.

Suddenly sweet strains of music floated through the room. Old grouch raised his head slightly. Then as he listened a smile broke over his face.

Friend wife had won. Taking him by the arm she lead him into the parlor where a new Brunswick phonograph was playing.

Friend wife explained that the Ultona, a new device, made the music so entrancing. "And I am buying the Brunswick with monthly payments from the L. H. Schrader Furniture company." Now old grouch has come to be known as a pretty good fellow.—Advertisement.

Tom Mix Scores Big Hit In Play At The Macdonald

The inimitable Tom Mix came to town again last night in a new Fox production, "Romance Land," and kept a capacity audience at the Macdonald theater enthralled for over an hour, scoring one of the greatest successes of his highly successful career. His performance in this thrilling and fanciful romance was unusually well done. The forecast of the producer stating that Tom Mix had achieved new heights of screen acting, was more than fulfilled. The film is commendable for many reasons. It shows careful direction, a well written story and good photography, in addition to smooth and artistic acting. Another favorable point is the lovely element of comedy that sparkles in twinkling fashion all through the picture.

Tom Mix carries out with consummate artistry his part as the youth who becomes so saturated with the adventures of Scott's "Ivanhoe," that he starts out to emulate the hero. A fine balance is preserved by the girl portraying the fair maid who places such implicit credence in the tales of King Arthur. There is a tournament done in modern Western style, which furnishes much thrilling incident. Tom Mix goes through many exciting stunts, among them a ride in midair, swinging in a tool bucket suspended from a cable. There are horseback stunts that make one gasp.

Summing up the points of the photoplay briefly, it is exceptionally worth while seeing. To miss it is to pass up a classic of the screen. The Macdonald will very likely have a shortage of seats during the Saturday run of "Romance Land," and early attendance is recommended.

Revenge Element Features Plot of Within The Law

Two men are desparately in love with Norma Talmadge as Mary Turner, the heroine, in her gripping First National picturization of "Within the Law," showing at the Richmond T. & D. theater today.

One is a forger and the other a rich man's son. The forger proves his love for Mary when he confesses a murder of which she had been accused. Mary marries the wealthy young man as a means of wreaking vengeance against his father for a wrong the latter had done her. But she loves her "victimized" husband, and this is what adds a zest and complication to the plot.

Lew Cody plays the role of Joe Garson, the forger, while Jack Mulhall is seen opposite Miss Talmadge as Dick Gilder, the husband.

A Womans Back

The Advice of This Richmond Woman is of Great Value

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes it is the kidney's fault. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Richmond women know this Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. G. Schiltz, 1309 Bissel Ave., Richmond, says: "I suffered from the effects of kidney trouble. I had a constant ache in my back and when I was hanging up clothes, sharp pains caught me in the small of the back, which nearly doubled me up. I awoke mornings feeling more tired than when I went to bed. I suffered from pains in the back of my head and dizzy spells. Another member of the family told me about Doan's Kidney pills and I used two boxes. They gave me great relief and helped me in every way."

FOUR YEARS LATER, Mrs. Schlitz said: "My faith in Doan's Kidney Pills is as strong as ever. I use them at times when my kidneys trouble me and they never fail to do me good."

Pyhsicians Say 'I Can't Understand'

Stockton, Calif, June 30 1923

To Whom It May Concern:—

Last January I was told by four American doctors that I had hardened arteries and Bright's disease of the Kidneys—and that both were incurable. They could not help me.

Some friends of mine persuaded me to try the FONG WAN HERB CO. I had no hope of obtaining relief from them—thinking that if American science could not help me I was doomed. However I called on FONG WAN and he told me that I had high blood pressure and kidneys and that he could cure me easily in five weeks.

I began treatments with him, and after the first two weeks, the same American doctors who had pronounced my case incurable could find nothing at all wrong with me. They said that I was entirely well. They could only shake their heads and say: "IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO PUT A NEW HEART, ARTERIES OR KIDNEYS IN A MAN. I CAN'T UNDERSTAND." Nevertheless this is what Fong Wan did for me and I have never felt better in my life than I do now.

It is six months since I took treatment, and I am as well as I ever was in my life. FONG WAN brought about my cure in five weeks. I cannot too highly recommend the FONG WAN HERB CO. to all who are in need of treatments. E. B. PEPPIN Care of Associated Oil Co., Stockton, Calif.

READY FOR A RUN

Miami, Miami Beach and the whole state of Florida have received the greatest personal boost in years from the efforts of Eddie E. "HOW QUIET and SOOTHING IT IS HERE"

The above was the remark of a lady who recently visited a friend whose home was in Mira Vista.

Away from all the noise and bustle of the city, yet enjoying all its conveniences, and many other advantages, Mira Vista offers innumerable reasons why you should build your home there, not the least among them being the remark quoted.

Quiet and restfulness are not only conducive to calm nerves, but to your general health.

All the advantages of Mira Vista may be yours if you have a home there—and that home may be had at as low cost as in unrestricted and less advantageous locations.

We'd like to tell you all about it!

Modern Education Methods Explained At Rotary Meeting

The cost of education in the United States during the year 1920 totalled nearly one billion dollars, but the results were worth several times that amount, according to Harry Wilson, city superintendent of schools of Berkeley, who made the principal address at the luncheon of the Richmond Rotary club here yesterday.

"There are less objections made to the schools now than in the past," Wilson said. "The principal cry that one hears is that too wide a variety of subjects is taught to obtain satisfactory results and that children are kept in school too long.

"Present day education gives the pupil more than a knowledge of the three principal subjects of yesteryear, reading, writing and arithmetic. But it does not detract from those subjects and the average graduate today is a better speller and a better mathematician 'than the student who graduated 'in the good old days.'"

The program for the day was under the direction of Postmaster James N. Long.

Everybody Wants GOLD!

Oil is all right in its place, for lubricating purposes and to pour on troubled waters, but if you have gold enough, you can buy all the oil there is.

WE HAVE FOUND THE GOLD IN LARGE QUANTITIES AND IN PAYING QUALITYS

This is no gamble and no speculation, but merely a straight business investment in what has already been found and is now partially equipped and developed. A power plant is running, and a mill is in progress of erection, and will be completed next month, then the money in the shape of gold comes out of the ore, via the U. S. Mint at San Francisco.

The opinion of the management is that during 1924, this mine will pay from 25% to 40% on the investment to every stockholder, and this opinion is shared by the best mining experts of northern California. That beats savings banks a mile and then some.

OIL IS A BIG GAMBLE, BUT THE GAMBLE HAS BEEN WRUNG OUT OF THIS GOLD MINE LONG AGO —WE HAVE THE GOLD NOW!

There is twenty thousand tons of good paying gold ore out and piled up around the mill. It is necessary to doube the capacity of this mill as the ore is in endless quantity, and to do this, I am offering 10,000 shares more of the company stock for sale at just half the price that prevails around town. 100 pleased and satisfied stockholders right here in Richmond, will not take double that for their stock. Many of them have visited the mine, and will verify these statements. No more stock will ever be offered. This is the last chance to get in on the ground floor in this splendid gold mine. Easy monthly payments.

Take what you can of this, hold it for six months and then I will get you twice the amount you paid on thirty days notice.

P. S. And I am in the habit of doing just what I say I will do as most of you know.

SHEARS AND SUNSHINE

Bobbed hair may not hold ideas, but it seems that they do hold other things, including husbands, tact and bottled sunshine. A San Francisco judge says that no bob-haired woman has ever asked a divorce in his court, and the San Francisco emergency hospital says that no bob-haired girl has attempted suicide in more than a year.

Considering that, mentally, the bob-haired woman is usually in the katydid class, the success she is making of herself calls for study. We think it is because she has discovered a novel interest in life, and because she has given herself a new deal. No woman herself, or this sad old world is anything less than mighty good fun.

Betty Entertains

It was the first meal that Betty had prepared in her own home since returning from her honeymoon. True, it was, the guests had arrived somewhat ahead of schedule. Yet Betty did the seemingly impossible by entertaining her guests between trips to the kitchen where the roast was sizzling, and then rushing back to tell a yarn or sing a solo.

Soon the hostess announced that dinner was served—and such a meal—you may well imagine a blushing bride of two weeks giving her best.

During the course of dinner some one asked where Betty had taken her cooking course. Even Betty's school chum wondered if some fairy had touched Betty with a magic wand.

Dear old Dad, too, couldn't help wondering why Betty's mother never could quite come up to Betty's first attempt.

"There is really no secret," Betty explained. "Just follow me and I'll show you how easy it all is accomplished."

Betty lead the way into the kitchen where a new Wedgewood range stood out in sharp contrast to the other furnishings.

"You see," said Betty, "this range has a thermostat oven heat control and it's impossible to burn any food that goes into the oven."

GIFT OF THE DESERT

"Juan Sanchez, a ranch foreman, and a black-faced fellow who came out from Nogales."

"Arvan; they'd swear anything Bob told them to. They'd make it out you were married all right."

"But—but I'm not; not now!"

"Not now? What do you mean?"

"I've—I've killed him!"

CHAPTER VI

A New Alliance.

For a moment Kelleen did not move; then impulsively he groped for her hand in the darkness.

"You killed him? You did? Say, I like you," he exclaimed earnestly. "You are sure some girl, you are. But are you certain you killed him?"

"I—I think so—yes," she stammered, totally surprised by the way in which he greeted her news. "But I—I am not exactly sure. All I know is he is lying there on the floor of my room, and—and he never moved after he was struck."

"Struck? You did not shoot, then?"

"No; I had no chance. I got away from them, and ran to my room, where I meant to lock myself in, but someone had taken the key. I shut the door behind me and got the revolver out of a drawer, determined to defend myself. The men followed, but stopped outside in the hall. I could hear them laugh and talk; then they went back to the front room again. Bob was so sure I couldn't get away, he wasn't afraid to leave me there. He planned to get drunk first, and then come back."

"Sure; that would be his style; and you waited? You didn't try to get away?"

"Get away! Where could I go? Only out into the desert, and those men would have trailed me if I tried that. Yes, I waited in the dark, desperate, determined to kill him when he came. And he came finally, so drunk he could hardly stand, but ugly with the liquor. I do not seem to remember exactly what did happen; he laughed and jeered at me, and got hold of the weapon before I had courage to fire. Then we struggled, and the grip of his hands drove me mad. The revolver fell to the floor, but I got it, and struck at him with all my might. That was all; he just lay there, and never moved; I could see his face in the starlight, but—but I couldn't make myself touch him. I—I believed he was dead, that I had killed him."

"Never mind, little girl," interrupted Kelleen firmly, "maybe he was, but I doubt it; guys like that are not croaked so easy. Then, I take it, you ran away."

"Yes; I—I couldn't stay there, and I thought perhaps there might be a chance, if I could only find a horse somewhere. I knew the others were all drunk, and I would not be missed before morning. I had to try, and that was how I came to be here. You—you understand now?"

"Yes, I understand, and I am going to stay with you. But first, let's get this straight. The main question is, are you ready to trust me as a white man?"

"Yes—I am."

"That means a lot more than you think right now," he went on, but evidently encouraged by her tone. "Because it ain't going to be so easy getting away. I don't take any stock in Bob's being dead; he's got a knockout, that's all, and when he comes to himself again he's going to be raving. He'll have every rider on this ranch on our trail, and the best we can reckon on is maybe three hours' start. You got to stay with me, and do just what I say—and, girl, that sure means you must trust me plumb to the limit. Do you sabe that? This ain't going to be no canter between here and Nogales; the only chance we've got is to hide out, first in the desert, and then in the hills. I'm telling it to you rough; but you better know it now than later."

"You mean we shall have to be alone together for—for some time?"

"That's the stuff. We ain't going to have an easy gallop into town. You don't know me from Adam, and if you did, I reckon you wouldn't go a mile with me. I ain't very highly thought of along this border, I'll say that; there ain't many would choose me fer a partner, that's a fact. More, I ain't got nothing to say to you except that I'm going to play square. If you trust me I'll bring you through safe enough in one way or another; but if you don't feel that you can go the limit, then the best thing for you to do, maybe, is to stay here, and scrap it out with Bob Meager. My notion is this running away with his wife ain't going to be no snap even for me, and darned if I'm going to tackle the job except you're of a mind to go clear through with me."

"You think I am his wife, then—that he is really alive?"

"I haven't a doubt of it. At least I am going to proceed on that theory. Meager is the one we have got to escape from; if he recovers by daylight from that rap you gave him, he is going to lead us a merry chase. Every minute of a start we get, the better. But I want you to get it straight—will you go with me?"

There was an eager earnestness in his voice of which she was fully conscious, yet some way this did not frighten her. The one vision of Bob Meager, drunk and grasping her in his arms, dominated all else, and left her careless of any lesser danger. Impulsively she thrust out her hand in silent promise.

"You mean yes?"

"I mean yes. I trust you fully, absolutely. I will do exactly as you say."

"It is bound to be some test, young lady," he returned gravely, releasing her hand, and rising to his feet, "but I reckon I won't let you regret it. Nobody ever trusted Dan Kelleen yet and found him a piker. We're pardners now; let's go."

He picked up a saddle from the bed of hay on which he had been resting; found another hanging on a stake driven into a beam, and with both flung carelessly over his shoulder, emerged through the open door into the starlight. Deborah followed closely, a new feeling of relief giving lightness to her step. She was no longer alone, unguided; something about the words and actions of the man brought confidence. The situation was plainly no novelty to him; he had ben a fugitive before and had learned every trick in the hard school of experience. Whatever had happened to Bob Meager, it was clearly evident the fellow had not yet recovered consciousness, and it was hardly likely his fellows would become aroused until he sounded the alarm. The way of escape still remained open, but no one could tell for how long. Success might hang upon moments. Kelleen's keen eyes searched the deep shadows anxiously, but his lips smiled in satisfaction.

"It's all right," he whispered confidently. "You ride, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Good! It struck me maybe you didn't, being a nurse from the East. My horse is all right, but I'll have to rope one for you, and I might pick a wild devil in the dark. Could you stay?"

"As long as he keeps his feet."

"D—n, but I like your style!" he said enthusiastically, letting his hand rest an instant on her shoulder. "You and I are going to hit it off fine. Come on, now; keep back in the shadow."

"D—n! But I Like Your Style!"

She waited at the bars of the corral while Kelleen vanished in the darkness of the open, lightly swinging a coiled lariat in his hand. Both houses were from there hidden from view, and, now that her newly found companion had disappeared, Deborah felt entirely alone. Had she done right to repose trust in him? Who was the man? Why was he at the ranch if he had no connection with Bob Meager? What would his presence there imply? The ranch was on no commonly used trail; visitors never came without a purpose. To reach there at all required miles of desert travel, with no little hardship. There must always be an object in such a journey. What could it be in this case? Was the fellow a mere drifter, seeking a job? A fugitive from justice, hiding from the law? or actually in Meager's service? Surely he must be one of the three; nothing else would account for his presence under such circumstances.

Yet she liked, and trusted him; felt no fear of the man. So far as his relations with her were concerned not a doubt of his absolute squareness assailed her. She believed his promise. Outlaw, fugitive, border desperado, he had won her faith already. The reaction she experienced from being helplessly alone caused her now to rest all hope on this stranger who had so mysteriously come to her rescue; she cared not who he might be, or from whence he came. Enough that he was there, strong-armed, capable, fearless, willing to befriend her, to guide her safely. It was in this spirit of almost blind confidence that the girl welcomed his return when he finally emerged from out the black shadows, leading two horses trailing quietly behind, through the corral gate.

He saddled and bridled the two rapidly, evidently accustomed to working in the dark.

"Are you ready?"

"Yes."

"Put your foot in my hand. This is my horse; he'll carry you fine. Now, up you go. This your water bottle? I'll strap it to the pommel where it will be handy."

He swung into the saddle himself, restraining the half-broken animal with an iron hand.

"You know the way down the mesa?" he asked, "the Nogales trail?"

"Of course."

"Then ride ahead, and I'll follow. I may have trouble with this brute before he learns who is master. Just go straight on out into the desert. I'll not be far away."

She rode forward, never questioning his right to command. The horse under her moved steadily at a swift walk, alert but well trained, obedient to the slightest pressure of her fingers on the rein. Her courage was high; she was no longer alone; the dread of the desert had left her.

Deborah found passage down the steep hillside and had advanced some distance across the level, before Kelleen joined her. No words were exchanged between them as he reined in his horse beside her own. Evidently the man was satisfied with her knowledge of the trail as well as the progress made. He turned in the saddle, gazing searchingly back at the dim outline of the mesa, now barely visible through the gloom. She glanced aside uneasily.

"There is something wrong?" she asked, troubled by his silence.

"No, nothing stirring. I circled the bunkhouse before leaving; the whole outfit is still asleep. I was just getting directions fixed in my mind. We are going a route I haven't traveled

Auction Sale Is Delayed By New Court Proceeding

Owing to court proceedings instituted by a former stockholder in the Harbor Center Land company, the absolute auction sale of lots in Wall's Harbor Center tract has been postponed. Action was started to prevent the sale at absolute auction to the highest bidder, without reserve price, according to officials of the company, who state that while they feel that they are within their rights and can sell these lots by public auction, they must wait until the court decides the matter.

When lots are offered at absolute auction sale there are no schedule prices to be realized and the company is not allowed to bid on any lot so offered, explained Barry, the auctioneer, and this feature of the proposed auction sale is objected to by the former stockholder, who has appealed to the court to prevent the sale. "Until the court decides the matter, we must wait," he said, "but if the court decides not to interfere in the sale, then we will carry out the terms of our contract. Our contract provides that every lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder regardless of former prices, so if we are allowed to proceed it stands to reason that the public will be the ones to benefit."

Bookmaps showing the lots owned by the Harbor Center Land company, are available at the office of the auctioneers, Barry & Austin, 813 First National Bank building, San Francisco and prospective buyers are advised to secure maps so that they may be prepared to take advantage of the auction sale if the court allows it to proceed.

S. O. EMPLOYEES PICNIC

An all day picnic is to be held tomorrow by the employees of the mechanical departments of the Standard Oil company at the Standard Oil Rod and Gun club grounds, according to announcement made yesterday. Elaborate arrangements are being made for the affair, and a large attendance is expected.

Chris Meyers, who has been doing special work in Susanville, returned to his home yesterday morning for a short visit.

Mrs. John Doyle, of Point Richmond, left yesterday for Chicago, where she will spend a short visit.

R. A. Shaw, 601 Florida street, left Richmond yesterday for Sacramento where he will spend several days.

Farm Center To Stage Big Circus

CONCORD, Sept. 27.—Concord Farm Center members of the Contra Costa Farm bureau have been preparing for the past three months for the circus they are to give at the club house grounds Saturday.

With more than fifty actors taking part, fifteen main events, including fancy bareback riding, trapeze and ring stunts, ballet dancing, wrestling and other acts that will give the spectators many a thrill, the two hour performance will eclipse anything of the kind ever attempted in the county, with local talent participating.

The farm center fight promoter has made arrangements to have four boxing bouts, a total of twelve rounds in all, as well as a wrestling match between two experienced mat men.

In addition to the main tent, there will be a number of small tents, housing the sideshows commonly seen at circuses of this kind. Merchants of Oakland and Concord and Contra Costa county manufacturers have assisted materially in the local farm bureau members in the arrangement of the show, which is a benefit for the farm organization. A local committee is in charge which includes Messrs. Gehrken, Frank Rose and M. Burke.

WHIST PARTY SUCCESS

The Oak Leaf club whist party, held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Daley, 420 Thirteenth street, was a decided success, according to a report yesterday. The next meet will be held at the home of Mrs. Nellie Blake. The prize winers at the last session were Mesdames C. Bigley, J. Burke M. Jennings, M. Bonham, M. Blake, H. Rodas and F. Wells.

Organization Of Volunteer Fire Departments, Plan

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—Organization of a volunteer fire department has been undertaken by residents of Oak Villa, Moraga and Orinda Park and Saturday night at Oak Villa a benefit dance will be given to raise funds for purchase of fire fighting equipment. Disastrous fires, such as swept the hill area on the border of Contra Costa and Aameda causing the destruction of north erkeley, occur almost annually and it is to prevent, if possible, a repetition of the recent fire which might sweep many small settlements and farm homes, that the organization of a volunteer fire department is being undertaken. Oakland entertainers have been secured for the dance and a supper will be served.

Contra Costa Urged To Guard Fire Areas

OAKLAND, Sept. 27.—Establishment of a fire patron to suppress brush and forest fires in the hill range between Alameda and Contra Costa counties, is urged in a communication today from Commissioner Frank Colburn to the Alameda county board of supervisors.

Colburn's letter says in part:

"If the county of Alameda, acting jointly with the county of Contra Costa and the cities of the two counties, would create and maintain a fire patrol with a body of fire fighters to work especially in the hill districts surrounding the various cities, it seems to me the problem of checking brush and dry grass fires could be solved. It is patent that there must be some co-operative body of men whose business it is to adopt fire prevention measures and not leave it up to the several cities with the hit and miss condition that now exists."

Will Name Men To Take Charge Of Reorganization

getting that the greatest benefits of the chamber of commerce are derived by the community, by the city as a whole, and are intangible benefits that will in the end pay big dividends to every business man in Richmond."

Roy Long, president of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce told of some of the trials they have been through in reorganizing their body and getting it into a workable, efficient unit.

Support Necessary

"The chamber of commerce is a semi-official organization in the life of the city," Long said, "and the financial support is of minor importance. The support of the people, all the people, is what makes an active, able chamber and the financial support is then easily obtained. A large industry could afford to support the organization financially but could not hope to secure the results that are obtained when all the people are lending their help in building the industrial and civic life of the city.

"When a manufacturer comes into a city he asks about site locations, labor conditions, shipping facilities, and then the chamber of commerce. The manufacturers realize the tremendous advantage to them of having a live chamber of commerce that is boosting the city in which they are located."

A chamber of commerce was defined by Charles S. Knight, of the California Development association, as a clearing house for ideas for city improvement and a bureau of information for people desiring to settle in the vicinity. It is the spokesman for the city in matters pertaining to the city's growth and develoment and should have the support of all organizations interested in the welfare of the city.

Development Assured

"With the opening of the transcontinental highway through Utah and Nevada to northern California there will be another doorway opened to the eastern tourist. Take steps to benefit by this increase. Arrangements are being made to establish touring bureaus in Denver and other cities through which the tourist travel passes advising them to come by the new route. You should be taking advantage of opportunities to get these people, many of whom may be looking for industrial sites, to come through your city and then you should have an organization to tell and show them what you have to offer.

"The growth of California and California cities so far has been natural, taking advantages of the natural resources as they have been found but no great effort has been made to plan the growth to insure the maximum amount of benefit and convenience. The time has come when growth must be planned and guided and organizations are at work all over the state with this end in view.

Richmond Has Progressed

"Richmond's growth has been identical with that of the state and Richmond has also progressed to the place where some organization must be formed to plan for the future and see that the growth is along constructive lines. You have been growing naturally, now you must start growing systematically if you are to keep pace with your neighbors.

"Richmond must be ready to get her share of the growth that is coming to California as a result of the advertising campaigns that have been carried on the last few years. You should turn over a new leaf, get your organization ready for the new year and build a new Richmond.

The general sentiment of the citizens present was in accord with the policies outlined by the speakers and many Richmond business men spoke in favor of the organization of a chamber of commerce immediately.

Others Speak

E. B. Bull said Richmond has been without a chamber too long now and the time has come for action. "Let us follow the advice of these men who are experienced in progressive community building," he said, "and take off our coats, roll up our sleeves and go to work."

P. M. Sanford said he was fully in accord with the move and was prepared to help to the limit of his ability in the organization and financing of a live chamber.

"I am behind the chamber of commerce and don't think we can start it too soon," was the way G. H. Rooker expressed his opinion.

"Go right ahead and organize, I am right behind you," declared Councilman E. J. Garrard.

H. A. Johnston said he was eager to see a chamber of commerce and suggested that a minimum of $10,000 be set for the initial supporting fund. E. J. Burg said he was in favor of the organization getting started immediately, but thought the minimum should be set at $20,000 with the mayor to appoint a committee to make organization arrangements and start the drive for members.

Committee Named

J. F. Galvin moved that the mayor be instructed to name a committee of 20 men to arrange organization and start a financial and membership drive, the minimum for the support fund to be $20,000 and the members to pledge their support for two years.

The motion was seconded by several men and carried unanimously.

The mayor announced that he would appoint the committee and announce its personnel through the columns of the Richmond papers Monday.

Other Richmond business men to speak in favor of the chamber of commerce were S. L. Merry, J. S. Weed, L. A. Peckman, C. W. Bray, E. M. Tilden, Fire Chief Roy Lemoin, Attorney Hall Sanders and Coroner Charles F. Donnelly.

Just Town Talk

Copied Right by R. De B.

Dear "Town Talk"

Our boy is eight years old and at the table we have always permitted him to take part in the conversation during the meal hour. We have a guest who has been reading all the literature on "How to Raise Children" although she hasn't any of her own. She objects to children talkink at the table. In spite of her opinion, we feel that a boy eight years old should be permitted to take a small part in Table Gossip. Do you think we are right?

MOTHER

MY DEAR "Mother"

I KNOW a man

WHO WAS not permitted

TO TALK at the table

WHEN HE was a boy

UNLESS A guest addressed

HIM FIRST

AND EVEN then

HE WASN'T allowed

TO SAY very much

AND THE only thing

IT DID for him

WAS TO mold his character

SO THAT ever since

HE'S GROWN up

HE TALKS all the time

AND ITS my opinion

THAT MANY times

THE CONVERSATION

OF EIGHT year old boys

IS MORE INTERESTING

THAN MANY grown ups

AND I am in favor

OF LETTING them all

HAVE THEIR say

FOR I can remember

A FEW years back

I WAS invited out

* * *

TO A friend's to dine

* * *

AND AT this home

THE BOY of the house

WAS NOT permitted

TO JOIN in the conversation

AT THE table

FOR THE boy's father

MADE IT his duty

TO DO the talking

AND ON this day

AFTER THE father

HAD LABORED through

A NEAR humorous story

HIS SON spoke up

AND SAID: "Now father

* * *

"TELL THE other one"

* * *

AND EVER since then

I'VE BEEN in favor

OF BOYS taking part

IN TABLE conversation.

I THANK you.

Three Men Hurt In Fire On Ship

Three men were burned when fire, supposed to have started from a backfiring gasoline engine, almost destroyed the tug Kapawa while it was towing a barge load of lumber from San Francisco to Crockett Point late Thursday night. The tug was between Point San Pablo and Point Pinole when it became virtually enveloped in flames.

The steamer Isleton of the California Transportation company took the crew off the tugboat. The three and A. B. Koetitz and G. Bulke, seamen injured, M. A. Davison, engineer, men, were taken to San Francisco for treatment.

Standard Oil Tow Boat No. 1 and a fire tug from San Francisco succeeded in extinguishing the fire on the Kapawa and towed the charred vessel to Point San Quentin, where it was beached. It is believed the vessel will be a total loss.

Another tugboat was called and it delivered the barge of lumber, which had been cut adrift, to Crockett.

The fire on the tug was visible for many miles.
